PORT OF PALM BEACH ACTIVE AFTER WILMA

RIVIERA BEACH, FL – The Port of Palm Beach on Thursday (Nov. 3) had a record four passenger vessels and seven cargo ships in port. Despite considerable damage to facilities from Hurricane Wilma, the Port re-opened just 36 hours after the storm’s passing. “The Port has been Chock-a-block with business since reopening,” said Port Chairman Blair J. Ciklin. “We’re doing everything possible to move the cargo, receive the passengers and meet the demand.”
